from field observations and knowledge to collective actions towards protecting freshwater ecosystems

ACT4DRIN SPRING SCHOOL

ACT4DRIN SUCCESS FACTORS

- ✓ The project was demand driven and not supply driven.
- ✓ The project area needs and specificities were well mapped and the project came as a direct follow-up of MIO-ECSDE's actions in the Drin River Basin.
- ✓ All key actors and stakeholders were identified from the planning phase of the project and good working relationships were in place.
- ✓ Adequate time was allocated for receiving partner inputs throughout the implementation of the project and all partners were given an active role in almost all project activities since the design phase ensuring an enhanced sense of ownership of the overall project and its eventual results.
- ✓ The foreseen synergies with other ongoing relevant initiatives in the region were crucial for mobilizing the necessary momentum for the success of the project.
